Fooling Fish with Soft Plastics

with Al Gag

Al "Gag" Gagliarducci is not only well-known around the country as the owner of Al Gag Custom Lures, but also as one of the most popular speakers on the East Coast.

"Al has spoken to our members many over the years," said Education Committee Chairman Ed Kearney, "and he is always entertaining. Not only does he teach us something each time, he is a great storyteller and one of the funniest guys around. He holds the audience's attention the entire time he talks."

Al has been building and designing lures since 1978 and his success at creating lures comes from his knowledge of fishing and knowing how his lures perform underwater. He will be sharing this information with us during this seminar.

"There's a lot of things that comes into play when fishing with plastics," said Al. "You need to take into consideration the tides, water clarity and what type of bottom you're fishing on. Even the type of algae and plantlife growing in the area helps decide what colors to use."

Soft plastic lures are the least expensive, yet the most product lures you can use, as long as you know how to property fish them. He will tell about the reasons how he designed his now-famous Whip-It Eels and Whip-It Fish and why they work so well. Al will be sharing all of this information - and more - during his seminar.

ALSO... Al is well-known for his support for many charities. When he visits RISAA, he will conduct a special raffle with those in attendance. The prizes will be some of his lures, and all of the proceeds will go to the Imagine Play Project for Cancer Free Kids in Massachusetts.

The
Quarterly Business Meeting
